-The Kentucky newspapers have again taken up the case of Rev. B. M. Neal, who they say has just completed a year's sentence in the Missouri penitentiary for bigamy, and Is back among the members of his old congregation at Mt. Vernon, Mo, many of whom believe him an innocent and persecuted man. A brief history of Neal, if there be only one, and of the Neals, if two, is as foilows: About 12 years ugo there appeared in this county and that part of lancoln adjoining Boyle, a young man loy the name of B. M. Neal. But little was known of his earlier lilstory and as he was a common farm laborer, quiet and unobtrusive, no one took the trouble to make inquiries concerning him. Among other people he worked for was Jailer 'F. M. Shumate, then a renter of Mrs. Anna D. Moore's farm, on the Perryville pike Neal was uneducated. He could scarce ly read, and if he could write at all, it was little if anything beyond his signature that he could put on paper. HE WRITES ABOUT SOME OF THE PRINCIPAL CITIES OF THE STATE.

Linca, the Birtheplace of the Electric Car. Some of the Juys and Surrows of Gel-That William Saw.

[Copyright, 1892, by Edgar W. Nye.]

IN Onio. The success and prosperity of the Ohlo society, of New York, is ample proof of the great wealth and intelligence of the Buckeye State, but after all it is better to travel through the great state and chserve her countless avenues of wealth, from her ber tifnl und well kempt farms to her state, aren, from her cabbages to her intural gas. You understand it

The middle states have one peculiarity that they are beginning almost to wish they did not have, although it was started out to be a charm. Charms, however, when neglected, become at times uniwances.

We were visiting Lima not long since, a thrifty town with all the snap and vigor of a new gold camp in the west. yet with the shrewd and cool headed business that of a Cape Cod town. She has this characteristic, however, to which I have darkly alluded. It is a public square. The public square was of course Intended to be on the start a thing of beauty, but it has in too many of the middle state towns become un open air livers stable, covered with the choice decorations of a hadly farmed farm.

The square is of course geographically In the center of the town, and is disthethy visible from every direction. The iden is a good one, but when it becomes the grazing ground of the mothenta. horse and the home of the watermelon rind, the spring of the year adds no beantles to it and Taxpayer and Veritas write pieces about it.

It is also in many cases a hav and wood market. Here the man in the blue army overcoat (he has never been in the army or he would not be wearing it) meets the man in the buffulo overcoat, and they borrow tobacco of each other, chew some of it, spit eight times, water their stock and go home.

People come to the editor and say: "That square is getting to be a blamed nuisance. You ought to roast it, tio for it." Then the editor says in his paper, provided the man who made the suggestion has paid for his advertising

"We regret greatly to see our beautidul public square in such a neglected condition. Will not some one move in the matter? It is a sin and a shame, and as a matter of fact it is high time to call a halt."

Teams not actually engaged in traffic on the streets ought not to be permitted to stand bltched inside the business part of any city whatever. Even Minneupolis, hig and prosperous as she is, still permits hundreds of farm teams to stand tied nlong its muln avenues, not only by the hour, but by the day, a vast fringe of starvation, colic and botts in the very heart of a great, thriving and beautiful

The farmer would not want the gas works on his farm. Why does he expect to bring his nnisances into town? Because the farm is too often in the spring of the year a vast, humiliating exposure, that is no reason why these sanitary methods should be brought into town, is it?

Lima has about the earliest electric car line in America. It is a double trolly system, and the cars are getting old and childish. The rolling stock is to be renewed very soon.

At all these towns nearly every one's room is heated by natural gas. It holds out very well. I was through this state early hi the discovery business, and I then prophesied that gas from the interior of the earth would continue to manifest itself up to the present time, and possibly even later. Subsequent history has shown that I was right. The electric street cars of Lima are sadly out of repair, as I said. They have the odor of a cheap lodging house on the · Bowery, as nearly as I can recall it now. They are shabby in the extreme. Also in the middle. Next Lent I shall abstain from the use of these cars.

Lima is one of the thrifty and prosperous cities of Ohlo, and Is also the home of the Linna bean. In Cincinnati the other day we tried to buy a New York draft. The first four banks were just out of New York drafts. and the lifth one had just been plagiarized by a "gentleman with a cough" who downed the bank for some $27.35, I believe, and so it did not feel like selling New York exchange to "strangers," The bank had just offered a reward of seventy-live cents for the arrest and apprehension of the fiend who had "did it up" in that bold way.

It seems that some months ago a man from Chattanooga came in "with a cough" and presented a draft for pay- pipe with a lean-to at each side. It is ment. It was pretty large, and the owned by the state. No private person cashier looked suspiciously at the owner of the paper, but he kept his hand up to The Columbus

Finally, at the German National bank, | quires the French language. I was received kindly and a draft was sold to me at a reasonable price, with ful of it. A Cincinnath merchant said that led the other banks to be rude. It to make money and yet ruin her old they say ut once that they had no deposits with the New York banks and so she gets the job of doing it herself. could not sell a draft? I would not have tald any one. I would have respected their squator and misery. Now of course I am umber no obligations. On the street yesterday 1 ran into a young man who was admiliting his new spring suit in the glass store fronts as he passed along the street. I hart him quite severely. He reproached me, but ed, indeed, and passes off pleasantly. I am accustomed to that. A little reproach in the spring of the year does me good

I saw him coming a square away and regarding himself with ill disguised affection in the blg windows and allowing ladies and children to get out of his way or have a wing knocked off, so 1 httle North Carolina etiquetie Into that mollusk that we see yonder."

When I got up speed I steered for him with a newspaper in my hand, reading deserted her It carefully and trying to figure out what show there was for a premuture presidential boom which has the dressing removed from it a month too early. I got up pretty good steam, for I weigh over 18% pounds now, and living at first class hotels all wanter has given me fresh vitality nod tilled me with animal sprits and high purposes.

There was a sort of crunching sound, such as one hears when the lion tamer inserts his head into the open jaws of the wrong hon by mistake. The young man staggered back over a dressed hogand the two lay there together, as it were, one dressed hug beside the other dressed hog. It was a touching sight. The overdressed hog alid not book so peaceful as the other one dld. He had a troubled look which was not shared by the one that had the forced smile and a chip in his mouth, also a stick to prop his bosom open.

There are several street unlsances of this kind who make it dangerous for people to walk much in town. One walks along the street reveling in the view of himself in the store fronts; another reads the paper on the street, and unother goes along counting his change, ever and anon straing a ride on some lady's train

I shook hands with Governor McKinley at Columbus the other day and added him to my handsome and growing list of eminent acquaintances. He looks more like a statesman than any other American I have been at all intimate with since the untimely death of Daniel Webster. Governor McKinley is an ideal. statesman in appearance and bearing. The Cross That Would Produce Perfect

Information about Freuch coach horses and I am convinced they are going to be of great value to the country, particularly as a cross upon trotting bred mares of line form and good breeding that are not sufficiently fast to warrant their being bred to our fastest trotting stallions with the hope of producing animals of extreme speed. You know there has been a lack of effort to produce uniformity among our trotting families. The old saying "that they go fast in all forms" has led to the indiscriminate selection for breeding purposes (provided they were fast) of males and females regardless of their conformation, size and soundness. The result has been extreme speed for short distances at the expense of size, elegance and endurance, the very qualities that are indispensable in high class carriage horses. The French were wiser than we. When they began the energetic effort for the production of speed they excluded from competition in public races horses under a certain standsystematically to ruin the man who so and in height. This exclusion of small ones, and in order to test the endurance of 3-year-obls they were trotted distances of 21; miles on the turf.

As the government was a large buyer of the most perfect, large, fast stallions. it became a patron of the races as a means of testing the capabilities of the stallions It desired to buy. Added to this the fact that the government would not use, nor allow to be used for public write another play I shall by all means service, any stallion that was unsound have a denouement. I did not think of it or that possessed a hereditary disease. we have an outline of the system that has given France a race of carringe ting resuly and issuing invitations for horses that for size, symmetry, endurnnce and speed, has no equal. It is true that their fastest horses are no match, in a trial of speed, for a single mile on dress, appearing in a scarlet plush cloak a hard track to our fastest trotters, but

We then brag about it. A man who will thus find in the best types of French basely deceive a girl that way and then conchers (the very qualities lacking in laugh about it ought to be written up in our motters) uniformity, size, elegance, the papers, and I was glad to see that the high knee action, endurance and great play turned out that way. Inlways like speed for long distances. It is not surprising, therefore, that these horses are being sought after to breed on our American trotters.-Cor. Breeder's Gazette.

Fresh Cow for Lundling Time.

There is nothing like a new milk cow for lambing time. Arrange, If possible, to have one "come in" a week or ten days before you expect the first lumbs. However well the mothers may own them, there are frequently times when a cold, weakly or neglected lamb can be saved by taking it to the cow and forcing the test into its little, cold month and a few streams of milk down Its throat.

We have known lambs so far gone that we could with difficulty get them to take the first swallow, when they would suddenly wake up and begin to draw so greedily that our nuxiety about the lamb's safety was transferred to the cow.

Sometimes a good mother will not have milk enough for a day or two or a young ewe may not have a sufficient supply for a longer period, then It is better to help out once a day with the cow than to have the lamb stunted.

We frequently get scolded for coming in with an empty pail during the lambing season.—Dakota Farmer,

The mass convention which meets here to-morrow has an important duty to perform and every democrat should be present. We do not believe that the democrats of Kentucky are to be led away from their first and only love by Mr. Watterson's wild-eyed utterances, and being for Cleveland over anybody and everybody else, it is their duty to say so. Our county should send its most reliable men to represent it at Louisville, men who will stand up for him and stay with him through thick and thin, unless ever been yet that he is not the proper pises Hill. man to nominate. ### DR. WEDMORE.

the limited circle of country town society in a young man one doesn't care for. a young man is pursued with too much ability and manifold charms.

Dr. Wedmore was a stoutish young man of thirty-two, with nondescript features and a slow, portentous manner. He had a large and increasing practice among the spinsters and widows of that somewhat damp and chilly neighborhood. So highly esteemed were his services in the sickroom that these ladies; would send for him at all hours of the day or night, until the good dector in self defense took to sending his red haired assistant to some of his more flagrant unhales imaginaires.

Daisy Drysdule's husband was a manufacturer in Mudchester, and, like other manufacturers, he lived us far away from the factory chimneys of that thriving city as possible. So his brand new red brick mansion by on the other side of the suburb of Northaw, and the society of Northaw supplied nearly all Mrs. Drysdale's intellectual recreation. Poor Daisy! How she missed London and the Upper Bohemia! She had a genius for giving little dinners, but of chance of seeing you alone? Try to be what use was that, seeing the component elements of which her parties were to be henceforth composed? Still she was not to be battled, and Mrs. Drysdale constantly entertained. The night after 1 arrived one of these dinners was given in my honor, and I was sent down to the dining room with Dr. Wedmore.

I shall not easily forget that night. gushings of London young men, I was days. nstonlshed at the naive manuer in which this country Alsculapius tried in vain to how has he"hide his sudden admiration. It came ont in every word and look. It was a case of "love at first sight" on the part You might do much worse. How much of Dr. Wishmore. At the end of a week I was better, and in ten days I was quite well. 1 really felt very grateful, for I knew that the doctor had saved me by his a cradle, an old suit of clothes, etc.)constant care from a dangerous illness. I wonder if he took my gratitude for -something stronger? Anywny, as 1 told Christina when she scolded me for Buntes Allerlei. the whole atfair, it was not my fault. I hadn't fallen in love with Dr. Wedmore—that's all.

The thing came quickly to a crisis. We were all invited to spend an evening at the doctor's house. In the north they have a mysterious meal called "high tea," which is apparently a source of no little comfort and even of self righteonsness. It enables the partakers thereof to alludo witheringly to the habit of "late dinners" indulged in by the inhabitants of the south. And so, if you are invited out in Northaw, be sure you will be regaled on tea and cold chicken (fearful mixture), on hot cakes, jam, marmalade and currant buns. To this evening meal, then, we were bidden by Dr. Wedmore.

He lived alone with his sisters, who were curiously like him. They were all stontish, with nondescript features and had slow and somewhat pompous manners. To see all four of them together inclined oue to indecent mirth. It was impossible to be more worthy, more dull and more self satisfied. The Misses Wedmore were considered to have a pretty tasto for art; they painted everything within reach with sprawling red roses or startling white daisies, and the doctor was of opinion that his sisters' artistic talent was of the first order. Miss Ada, too, saug songs by Pinsuti and Milton Wellings. The doctor liked Miss Ada's vocal efforts; while Miss Emily was literary, she assiduously read Miss Edna Lyall and Rider Haggard, and of these authors we discoursed solemnly until "tea" was announced. The air was full of ominous portents. The doctor's manner, when he invited northern hospitulity the current cake, was full of certain protecting pride, while a humbly conquering expression was in his eyes when they rested upon me. It was with "Intention," as the French say, that he showed me the photograph album, full of aunts and consins, after tea, and the good doctor looked quite sentimental when later on Miss Ada wurbled a romance, with a waltz accompaniment, entitled "The Love That Will Never Pade," I began to feel cold all down my back.

Five times did I get up, cross the room, engage either of the solemn Misses Wedmore in feverish conversation-1 always embel by finding the doctor at my elbow. At last I resigned myself to my fate and sat down to talk to him. I imagined that the state of drains in the suburbs of Northaw would be a safe subject and one mulikely to lead to a declaration of a tender nature, but in The provincial young man has never this, it appeared, I was mistaken. We possessed any attractions for me, and it got on to the subject of fevers, and to is certain that if I had not gone up north | convince me on a certain point the docto stay with Daisy Drysdale, I should for suggested a reference to one of the never have known so well such a strik- medical books in his surgery. "A three unle alrive," said Dr. Westmore, with a sigh, "and I shall not see yon again tonight." He took my hand and heblit fast.

"I will laring the book tomorrow morning," he said. "Shall I have a alone when I come," and, wrenching my land violently, the doctor disappeared.

"Dasy," I said lurriedly, in the carriage going home, "I am sorry to say, dear, I shall have to go home by the 10:15 tonorrow. 1-1 had a telegram just before we came out."

Beatles from Luncps and Stoves.

A popular Broadway club man, who wears the uniform of the metropolitan police, says ho has been making an estimate of the matter and that an average of two persons are burned alive every week in New York; that is, they are Two Vacant Lots in Same Block, harned dead-killed by fire. While an occasional holocaust startles the community, the real loss of human life by fire comes from the lamps and gas stoves, and is the result of carelessness. Some official figures on this subject would serve as a timely warning.-New York Herald.

Thirteen at Tairie.

The widespread superstition concerning the unlucky thirteen at table, according to which one of the number is doomed to soon die, doubtless has its origin in the fact that at the last supper there were that many persons assembled at the table with our Lord. In that instance Judas Iscariot was the one who gave up his life, not, however, from any superstitions notion regarding the number in question, but from remorse at his dasturdly betrayal of his Lord and Master.-Detroit Freo Press.

subscriber to "North American Homes." Our family journal is a monthly publication consisting of 16 pages, filled with the best literature of the day by some of the best authors, and is worthy of the great expense we are doing for it. Elght years ago the New York World had only about 15,000 daily circulation; to-day it has over 300,000. This was obtained by judicious advertisement and a lavish expenditure of money. What the proprietor of the N. Y. World has accomplished we feel confident of doing ourselves. We have a large capital to draw upon, and the handsome premium we are giving you will certainly give us the largest circulation of any paper in the world. The money we are spending now among our subscribers will soon come back to us in increased circulation and advertisements. The Crayon Portrait we will have made for you will be executed by the largest association of artists in this city. Their work is among the finest made, and we guarantee you an artistic Portrait and a perfect likeness to the original. There is nothing inore useful as well as ornamental than a handsome framed Crayon Portrait of yourself or any member of your family; therefore this is a chance in a lifetime to get one already framed and ready to hang in your parlor absolutely free of charges.

ALFALFA BLOAT.

When Dauger Is to He Apprehended from Alfalfa Pasturing.

I have for some time been studying the cause of bloat in entitle, the effect of eating green alfalfa or clover. I find that the alfalfa or clover when green is very heating, and when animals have eaten a quantity of it they become very thirsty, as it is very heating in the stomach. The danger from the bloot is then to be feared. If warm water can be furnished no serious results are to be apprehended, but if cold water is taken into the stomach bloating will innuedlately follow.

If they fill themselves up in the evenlng or fore part of the night on green clover or alfulfa, then he the morning the cool dew or frost or rain that they swallowed with their feed lms the same effect as drinking cold water. Inclose two cows or sheep in a green clover or alfalfa pasture where there is no water, and after they have filled themselves and become thirsty give one lukewarm water and the other cold water, and the one that drinks the Ice water will bloat and die in tifteen minutes.

I find also that the leaves of the plant are more henting than the stems. There Is no danger from feeding the plant bred, often produced other polled calves. when it has age for two reasons; first, These animals were so peaceable and animals then eat more of the stems; second, at that time of the year the water ty cannot make a mistake in selecting came to be in demand.
